

Hygiene for Dental Implants

Ms. Jamie Schoessling received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Dental Hygiene from Marquette University, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. She became the Restorative Implant Treatment Coordinator for Gary Morris, D.D.S. in 1993 in Buffalo Grove, IL. Ms. Schoessling authored one of BIOMET 3i's Professional Development Pearls on "The Team Approach to Patient Care Coordination: What matters most and why". Today, she practices dental hygiene, coordinates all of the restorative implant prosthetic patient care, and manages the day-to-day operations of the practice, which has a staff of 22 team members. Ms. Schoessling lectures on How to Successfully Grow the Restorative Dental Implant Practice as a Team, The Benefits of Employing a Restorative Implant Treatment Coordinator and Enhancing the Success of the Implant Practice. She also lectures on The Role of the Dental Hygienist in Implant Dentistry:

Hygiene Maintenance/Protocol for the Dental Implant Patient.

Course Description

The dental hygienist has a key role in the growth and success of the dental practice, especially when it comes to dental implants. It is crucial that the dental hygienist have a full understanding of dental implants in order to identify and educate potential implant candidates seen in their chairs on a daily basis for routine recall maintenance appointments. Once a patient has been restored with dental implants, the hygienist needs to know how to maintain those patients with proper instrumentation, patient education and oral hygiene instructions. This course will address all these topics from single implant restorations to fixed hybrid cases.

Course Objectives

- Dental Implants 101
- Identifying implant candidates
- Define the Hygienist's Role in building the implant practice
- Identify proper instrumentation and protocol from single implant to fixed hybrid
- How to assess Radiographs of Dental Implants
